STUDYING MISSION AT MOORE

WHY MOORE FOR WORLD MISSION?
About Moore

- Since 1856, men and women graduates of Moore College have been proclaiming Christ around the world. They were prepared for this wonderful responsibility through the College’s in-depth theological training for Christian ministry and mission.

- Moore College training integrates the development of knowledge, character and competence for Christian ministry. Students come to know God more deeply as they are taught to understand and teach the Scriptures with an emphasis on Biblical Theology. Knowledge of God and his purposes leads to a deeper love for God and people. Love compels us to want to develop the competencies and practical ministry skills necessary for a lifetime of service.

Moore Graduates: Impacting the World for Christ since 1856

To give a picture of the spread of the influence and impact of Moore in its history, this map includes current and past graduate/distance students’ locations.
Moore College graduates serve in cities and rural areas all around Australia and the world, in churches, university ministry, theological education, school ministry, Bible translation, evangelism, church planting, literature production, music ministry, hospital and prison chaplaincy.

- Moore College has been blessed with a student body comprising people from all over the globe, shaping and expanding one another’s mission heart and service.

- At Moore College students receive a strong foundation in being able to understand and teach the Bible, which is the basis for all effective Christian mission.

- Students are firmly grounded in evangelical theology, which equips them to deal with unusual, difficult and new situations that they come across in other cultures by providing a strong biblical basis for their listening, analysing, communication and behaviour.

- All students are trained in principles of cross-cultural understanding, including describing, explaining and connecting with people from other cultures and worldviews. Each year students can put these principles into practice as they plan, participate in and reflect on a week-long College mission to local, regional, overseas and Muslim contexts.

- The Diploma of Bible and Missions has subjects such as History of Christian Mission, Christian Communication in Mission, Understanding Buddhism and Islam, and Evangelistic Apologetics. These provide in-depth study of many issues in contemporary mission.

- The College has weekly visits from practitioners of mission and ministry of various kinds, particularly cross-cultural mission, so that students can receive regular input about how God is acting in the world, and be challenged about where God might have them serve.
